P
UNIV
H

NINTH REPORT

OF THE

SECRETARY

OF THE

CLASS OF 1871

OF

HARVARD COLLEGE.

JUNE, 1901.

PRINTED FOR THE USE OF THE CLASS.

CAMBRIDGE:
PRESS OF OLIVER B. GRAVES,
1901.

Digitized by the Internet Archive
in 2008 with funding from Microsoft Corporation

http://www.archive.org/details/n09reportclass1871harvuoft

NINTH REPORT

OF THE

SECRETARY

OF THE

CLASS OF 1871

OF

HARVARD COLLEGE.

JUNE, 1901.

PRINTED FOR THE USE OF THE CLASS.

CAMBRIDGE:
PRESS OF OLIVER B. GRAVES,
1901.

348638
4. 4. 35.

CLASS COMMITTEE.

DUDLEY HALL BRADLEE. HARVEY NEWTON SHEPARD.
HAMILTON McKOWN TWOMBLY.

ALBERT MALLARD BARNES, Class Secretary.

NOTE.

The asterisk [*] is used to mark the names of deceased members.
The dagger [†] is used to mark the names of temporary members.

PREFACE.

CLASSMATES:

In presenting my ninth report I have confined myself to the record of the past five years, except in one or two instances, where it has seemed proper to correct misstatements in the report of 1896. I must confess to a feeling of disappointment at its meagreness. It would hardly seem possible that so many of us could live five years and then be satisfied, even if compelled, to say that there was nothing of interest to each other in our careers during that time. Such, however, appears to have been the case, and your humble chronicler can but set down the facts as you have given them to him.

I think you must all be impressed when reading this report, as I have been in the preparation of it, with the feeling that, for the most part, we are "on the centre." Very few of us seem to have shifted our positions in either direction, but I venture to say that were we less modest, or were our movements reported by disinterested observers, we should show commendable progress.

Only five Class descendants have been born during the past five years.

None of the fifty-four bachelors of 1896 have since seen the error of their ways, and it is fair to assume that they are now past all hope.

The dread Reaper has been very considerate, and only four of those who graduated with us thirty years ago have reached the "inevitable asterisk." Of the temporary members, four are reported deceased, but my information in regard to this section of the Class is so unreliable that I may not be correct in this particular.

The amount of the Class Fund as per last report was		$4,117.02
Subscriptions have been		65.00
And the income		1,126.77
Making a total of		$5,308.79
Our expenses have been:
Class Report of 1896	$403.31
Commencement, 1897	134.56
" 1898	116.03
" 1899	121.60
" 1900	113.16
Changes in Investments	18.50	$907.16
Leaving a balance, June 1, 1901,		$4,401.63

The fund is invested as follows:

1 C., B. & Q. R. R. 1st mortgage 7's	$1,000.00
10 shares American Sugar Refining Co., preferred	982.50
5 " Cambridge Gas-Light Co.	958.75
8 " American Insurance Co.	924.00
Cash on hand	536.38
	$4,401.63

Please keep me advised of any change in your addresses, and call upon me at any time when I can be of service to you.

ALBERT M. BARNES,
Class Secretary.

HARVARD COLLEGE.

CLASS OF 1871.

AMORY, FRANCIS INMAN. No change since last report.

AUSTIN, AMORY. "I was for a short time the Newport secretary of the Harvard Club of Rhode Island, and am secretary of the Newport Natural History Society. Have read five or six papers before the Society, mainly upon ichthyological subjects, although I am more of a fisherman than an ichthyologist, and in 1900 I edited the Society's report. Am a member of the Council of the Rhode Island Society of Colonial Wars, and a member of the Rhode Island Society of Sons of the American Revolution."

BACKUS, HENRY CLINTON. Since last report has become a member of the Blue Pencil Club of the State of New York, the Dwight Alumni Association, the American Numismatic and Archæological Society, the Biographical Society of America, and the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

BARNES, ALBERT MALLARD. In April, 1897, was elected treasurer of the Cambridge Gas-Light Company, and is doing his level best to let his light shine over all Cambridge and a goodly part of Somerville. Is one of the trustees of the Cambridge Hospital and secretary of the board.

BARTLETT, NELSON SLATER. Still in Boston and engaged in the iron business as senior member of the firm of N. S. Bartlett & Co.

BASS, GEORGE. No change from last report.

BASSETT, FRANCIS. No report.

BIGELOW, WILLIAM STURGIS. No change from last report, except that for six or seven years he has served as one of the trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital, and as trustee of the Museum of Fine Arts, being appointed to the former by the Governor of the State, and to the latter by the Overseers of Harvard College. "Nothing else, except that your inevitable asterisk is five years nearer. Am I approaching it or it me?"

*BOARDMAN, EDWARD CHADWICK. Boardman died January 1, 1901, at his home in Garden City, Long Island. At the time of his death he was counsel for the Cramp Shipbuilding Company of Philadelphia, the Panama Steamship Company and other large corporations.

BONAPARTE, CHARLES JOSEPH. "Nothing to add, except that I was reëlected an Overseer in 1897."

BOOTH, EDWARD CHAUNCEY. Was appointed trustee of the Somerville Public Library in 1898. Is a member of the Somerville Historical Society and the Lexington Golf Club.

BOWEN, CHARLES STUART. Nothing to add to last report.

BOYD, WILLIAM WILLARD. No reply.

BRADLEE, DUDLEY HALL. Nothing to add to last report.

†BROOKS, JOHN COTTON. "Same as last report. You might add that I was Archdeacon of Springfield, Mass., from 1893 to 1896."

BROWN, JESSE. My dear Barnes — I am sorry I have nothing new to tell you for the Class Report. I wish I might promise myself the pleasure of meeting you all at dinner on the 25th of June next, but I am getting old, and Boston seems a long way off. Thank you very much.

BULLOCK, RUFUS AUGUSTUS. No change from last report.

BURNETT, EDWARD. Same as last report. Is "making a specialty of farm buildings, stables and dairies."

BUSH, SAMUEL DACRE. No change from last report.

BYERLY, WILLIAM ELWOOD. "Nothing new. Old biography is O. K."

CANAVAN, MICHAEL JOSEPH. Same as last report.

CHADWICK, FRANCIS BROOKS. No reply.

CHAPIN, HERBERT ALLEN. Same as last report.

CHAPIN, HORACE DWIGHT. No change from last report.

CHASE, HERBERT AUGUSTUS. Has been elected secretary of the Colonial Club, Cambridge, and is medical director of the New England Order of Protection.

†CHENERY, CORNELIUS. Dear Barnes — Pardon me for not answering your circular before, but there is positively nothing new to offer. I am with the "procession" still, that is all. I wish I had some interesting facts to relate concerning myself — a small fortune, for instance, or — well, never mind. I am simply pegging away, trying to keep the "pot boiling," that's all.

CLIFFORD, WALTER. Was a delegate-at-large from Massachusetts to the Republican National Convention at Philadelphia in 1900, and served on the Committee on Resolutions. Is United States Commissioner of the Circuit Court.

CONNOR, VIRGIL ROSCOE. No reply.

CUTLER, ARTHUR TRUFANT. No reply.

DABNEY, ALFRED STACKPOLE. No change since last report.

DANA, ISRAEL PUTNAM. Dear Barnes — Same old story. Active law practice and more of it. Am a member of the Kansas City Club and the Kansas City Country Club.

DANIELS, FRANCIS BARRETT. No change from last report.

DEARBORN, JOSEPH HENRY. No change from last report.

DEMING, HORACE EDWARD. Is still at work, with others, and with unabated confidence of ultimate success, to obtain the enactment of a scientific and genuine ballot-reform law. As a part of his work in the cause of electoral reform has assisted in the preparation and advocacy of measures which would tend to diminish corrupt practices in political campaigns, to do away with political contributions of corporations and campaign assessments of candidates for judicial office, and to improve and emancipate our nomination methods to elective public office. Bills for such purposes have been introduced at successive sessions of the legislature. Some bills partially accomplishing what was desired have been passed, and there are improving prospects each year that really effective electoral-reform statutes will be enacted. In 1896 was member of a special committee to consider and recommend suitable ways and means by which the citizens of

New York might avail themselves, at the municipal election of 1897, of the opportunities for good government afforded by the new State Constitution; the report of this committee and subsequent action founded largely upon it led to the organization of a Citizens' Union, which conducted a vigorous campaign in the municipal election of 1897, made more important by the act passed at the legislative session of 1897, consolidating New York, Brooklyn, Staten Island, and other outlying districts, into one municipality, the act to take effect January 1st, 1898. Tammany Hall, the Citizens' Union and the local branch of the Republican party each presented candidates for the mayoralty; when the votes were counted, Tammany Hall was found to have won, and the Republican candidate to have polled the fewest votes. The effect of this division of forces opposed to Tammany has been shown in a manifest tendency to liberalize the policy of the local branch of the Republican party, and its leaders openly announce their purpose to ignore national politics in the approaching (1901) municipal election and unite in nominating candidates pledged alone to the interests of the city. In the winter of 1897–98 was counsel for the Citizens' Union in some election cases, and, though defeated in the first instance, secured from the Appellate Tribunal and finally from the Court of Appeals decisions that the return of a local canvassing board was to be regarded as a mere ministerial act, and where not truthfully stating the same results as the detailed tally-sheet, which must be made as a contemporaneous record of the count, the tally-sheet must control. The decisions unseated the Tammany officials, gave their offices to the candidates of the Citizens' Union, and established a means of securing in New York elections an honest count of the votes cast. In 1897 was a member of the Special Committee of the New York Bar Association to examine into and report upon the proposed new charter for the government of the City of New York pending in the legislature, and represented the Association before the Mayor and afterwards before the Governor in opposition to the charter. The Mayor refused to approve the charter, but the legislature repassed it and the Governor signed it. The defects pointed out without avail in 1897 compelled, in 1900, the appointment of a commission to report a new revision, and in the legislative session of 1901 their report, modified very greatly to its injury in a number of important details, was enacted into law. Served on the Executive Committee of a Citizens' Committee of two hundred and fifty appointed from all parts of the city by the leading commercial and business organizations to secure the adoption of the charter as drawn by the Revision Commission, and later, with others, assisted in the work, which succeeded in considerable part, of undoing the legislative alterations in the Commission's bill, and restoring by amendments the charter as passed to its original form as recommended by the Commission. In 1897 was made chairman of the Committee on Municipal Program of the National Municipal League, under a resolution adopted at the annual meeting of the League in Louisville, "to report upon the feasibility of a municipal program which will embody the essential principles that must underlie successful municipal government, and which shall also set forth a working plan or system consistent with American industrial and political conditions for putting such principles into operation." The Committee found such "a working plan or system" to be feasible, and undertook to prepare one. It made a preliminary report at the League's meeting in Indianapolis in 1898, and a final report at the Columbus meeting in 1899. The report was unanimously adopted, and has since been issued in book form under the title, "A Municipal Program," by the Macmillan publishing house. Many of its leading recommendations will be found in the report already referred to of the recent commission appointed to revise the charter of New York City. In the summer of 1899 a corporation popularly known as the Ramapo Water Company was on the point of concluding a contract with the New York City authorities which would have made the city for many years, and apparently for all time, dependent upon a private monopoly for its water supply. The Merchants Association of New York at once began the organization of a movement in opposition to such a policy, and calling to its aid many non-members of its own Association, created a Merchants Association Committee on Water Supply. Served as member of the Executive Committee of this Committee and as chairman of its sub-committee on Municipal Finance and Public Policy. This sub-committee, among other things, traced and analyzed the financial history of New York's investment in water supply; collected the experiences of other cities in this country and in Europe; demonstrated that New York's investment for water had been and was a source of profit, that New York's so-called debt for water was a misnomer, that such a "debt," being a profitable revenue-producing asset, should be excluded from the constitutional debt limit of the city; and presented a tabular statement showing the huge loss to the city of such a contract as the proposed Ramapo contract. The opposition to the Ramapo contract prevented its consummation, and finally, in 1901, led to the repeal of the Ramapo Company's charter, the enlargement of the city's power to own and control its supply of water, and the passage by both houses of the legislature of a concurrent resolution to amend the State Constitution so as to exclude any debt incurred by New York for water supply from its constitutional debt limit. Incidentally, the Committee's investigation into the city's financial reports and methods of book-keeping caused a number of recommendations to be made which would be manifest improvements in the public interest. During the past year has acted as special counsel of the Attorney-General's office in an investigation into the conduct of the District Attorney's office of New York County, and is now (May, 1901) engaged, with others, in bringing about a union in the approaching city election of all forces in favor of honest government and opposed to Tammany methods and Tammany political ideals. Has led the busy life of a hard-working lawyer in active practice; has written occasional articles on subjects connected with taxation and revenue, the various phases of the municipal problem and the electoral and administrative machinery of government.

† DONALDSON, JOHN JOHNSTON. No report.

* † DUNNELL, THOMAS. While riding his bicycle on April 6, 1897, Dunnell was seized with a hemorrhage and died within a few minutes.

* EAYRS, NORMAN WILDER. Eayrs died at St. Louis, May 14, 1900, after a short illness and operation for appendicitis. At the Class meeting in Holworthy 12 on Commencement Day, 1900, Lincoln read the following tribute to Eayrs's memory, but no formal action was taken, in accordance with a wish expressed by him previous to his death.

"Rooming with Eayrs four years in Cambridge and two years afterwards, I think I knew him more thoroughly than any other member of the Class. Born and bred a Bostonian, with all the love and esteem for the locality to be expected from those facts accentuated by a course here and later at the Institute of Technology to fit for his chosen profession of civil engineering, his life for the last twenty years had been in the middle West. Although he had won a place and firm friends for himself there, he looked forward to the time when he could again come East and be nearer the places he loved, and the institutions of which he was a loyal son.

"Older than most of us on entering college (he had already had three years' experience in business), Eayrs was naturally more sedate than some of his close associates, and saw more clearly what the four years here meant to young men whose futures were in their own hands to make or mar. Earnest and conscientious in all his work, he was not very widely known in the class. Those who knew him came to appreciate all the sterling qualities that make the real man.

"Earnest of purpose, plain, but never unkindly, of speech, truthful of thought and word, patient, charitable, persevering, tenacious, he added a modesty not always found in that combination. True to his ideals, and knowing that an honest man is his own most severe critic, he was a steadfast, staunch friend to the men and things he liked, and an equally staunch, steadfast enemy to sham and falseness everywhere.

"With this rugged character, he was always willing to change his views if it was made clear to him he was wrong. I remember the real pleasure of one of his letters, in which he said things had come to light which changed his unfavorable opinion of a mutual acquaintance. These characteristics made him a man to lean upon, sure to do what fell to his share well, and to help others; they bound to him his friends, and won the respect, confidence and esteem alike of his employees, and of the officers of the corporations he served.

"The news of his death came as a great shock to many of us, and with double force to the few who knew him well, who relied on him always, and who had come to think whatever might happen, somewhere on the round world was Fayrs, doing his work as well as it could be done, and ready if asked to help somebody else; sure to have a true and honest opinion on every matter with which he was familiar, and ready to confess it if he knew nothing of the matter.

"Self-contained, steadfast and true, caring more for his class and his classmates than many of us suspected from his necessarily infrequent attendance at our gatherings, he is glad to have us, met here to-day in his old room, remember him kindly, and drink to his memory, at least in thought."

E. V. RICHARD. "No change, except I do not want Cambridge to appear as any part of my address, residence, or anything."

ELA, WALTER. In July, 1900, resigned the position of visiting physician to the Cambridge Hospital, and was elected a member of the Board of Consultation to the same institution. Has resigned from the Eastern Yacht Club and has been elected a member of the Beverly Yacht Club. Is a member of the Committee on Membership and Finance of the Massachusetts Medical Society.

EMERTON, EPHRAIM. In 1899 published "Life of Desiderius Erasmus" (G. P. Putnam's Sons), and has contributed the following magazine articles, "Gentleman and Scholar" (Atlantic Monthly, June, 1900), and "Das Höhere Unterrichtswesen in Amerika" (Deutsche Rundschau, November, 1900). Passed his "sabbatical year" in Europe in 1899–1900, visiting Greece, Constantinople, and Hungary, and representing Harvard University at the International Congress of History at the Paris Exposition.

ERNST, GEORGE ALEXANDER OTIS. In February, 1899, helped to organize, and was chosen president of, the Animal Rescue League of Boston. In December, 1900, was elected a member for three years of the Boston School Committee. His book on "The Legal Status of Married Women in Massachusetts" was revised and enlarged in 1897 and published under the title of "Law of Married Women in Massachusetts."

EUSTIS, WILLIAM ELLERY CHANNING. "Add University Club of New York, Toby Club, and Canaveral Club to your list of clubs."

FAXON, WALTER. Nothing to add to last report.

FOX, JABEZ. In October, 1897, was appointed a member of the State Board of Bar Examiners, and in November, 1897, was appointed a member of the State Board of Lunacy and Charity. These offices, together with the Professorship of Evidence in the Boston University, he resigned in September, 1900, on his appointment by Governor Crane as Justice of the Superior Court. Has contributed to law magazines the following articles: "Constitutional Checks upon Municipal Enterprise" (Harvard Law Review, April, 1891), "The Criticism of Cases" (Ibid., November, 1892), "Law and Morals" (Boston Law School Magazine, March, 1897), "Law and Fact" (Harvard Law Review, March, 1899), "Law and Logic" (Ibid., June, 1900).

†FRENCH, WILLIAM CLIFFORD. No report.

FULLER, ALFRED NEWELL. "Nothing of importance to report."

GARLAND, GEORGE MINOTT. "The only addition I can make is that in 1900 I was elected president of the Beacon Society of Boston."

GERRISH, JOHN BROWN. "Retired from active business December 31, 1900."

GLEASON, THEODORE CLARENCE. In February, 1898, resigned his pastorate at Allenton, R. I., and accepted a call to Lonsdale, R. I.

GODEY, HARRY. "Story? God bless you! I have none to tell, sir."

HAGAR, EUGENE BIGELOW. "My occupation (or non-occupation) and my residence are unchanged. Since my retirement from the practice of the law, music has engaged a large share of my activity."

HILLS, WILLIAM BARKER. "You may add to my list of magazine articles 'The Proteids of the Urine' (Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, August 10, 1900)."

HINCKLEY, SAMUEL PARKER. No change from last report.

HODGES, EDWARD FRANCIS. In addition to the offices mentioned in last report is consulting surgeon for the Deaconess Hospital and St. Vincent's Hospital at Indianapolis, medical director of the Eleanor Hospital for Children, medical director for the Interstate Mutual Life Assurance Company, State medical supervisor for the Royal Arcanum, and medical referee for the New England Mutual, Northwestern, and Washington Life Insurance Companies.

HUNKING, CHARLES DUSTIN. Since 1896 has been treasurer of the Real Estate Improvement Company of Haverhill, Mass., and is a charter member of the Medical Association of the Greater City of New York.

JACKSON, FRANK. Bond broker in Boston.

JAMES, HENRY CLAY. No change except that he now resides in St. Paul. Is a member of the Commercial Club there.

JAY, AUGUSTUS. No reply.

JENKS, CHARLES WILLIAM. "Last report is O. K. for 1901."

JOHNSON, TREBY. "I am the same as ever: working my passage in the same old treadmill."

JONES, GEORGE IRVING. "No change to report except in my address."

KIMBALL, CHARLES WARREN. From 1898 to 1900 inclusive was district attorney of Yates County, N. Y.

KING, JOHN LORD. Dear Barnes — I return herewith your questions. I'm really sorry now that I haven't been to congress or the legislature, or even in the city government, as I begin to realize that my chances to have my fame perpetuated in our Class memorial reports grow beautifully less: If I can get the time during the next five years, I think I'll get into the legislature, or the board of aldermen, just to be able to please you with a more variegated set of answers, and incidentally to make good reading for the descendants of '71 even unto the fourth and fifth generation. You may, however, add the following to the list of offices named in your last report: President of the Harmon Falls Power Company, the Eastern Building and Loan Company, the Potsdam Electric Light Company, the Syracuse Club, and the Ragout Club. Member of the Harvard Club, New York City; the St. George's Society, New York City; the Onondaga Golf Club, and the University Club of Syracuse. Treasurer of the Onondaga County Republican Committee.

KING, WILLIAM NEIL. "Let the old record stand without any additions."

KLAPP, WILLIAM HENRY. My dear Barnes — I am sending you the data you asked for for the Class Report, and hope that you will consider it prompt enough. I know how difficult it is to get such information, and really pity you for it. I have not got much to add to the last report. It consists chiefly of the addition to club membership of the Rittenhouse Club, and the omission of the Houston Club. In 1898-99 I was president of the Classical Club, and in 1903-04 president of the Contemporary Club. I have written more or less, chiefly on classical subjects, but I really cannot tell myself what they were or where they are, so just let it go; nobody would be interested anyhow. Of course you do not care to have any record of trips to Europe, which are so common now-a-days, unless something remarkable has happened, which is not the case with mine. I am sorry to say that I will not be able to be present at the Class Dinner on June 25th, as my passage for Europe is engaged for the 22d of the month.

LAMB, HORATIO APPLETON. In May, 1897, was appointed a member of the Trustees for Children, an unpaid board having charge of the dependent and neglected truant and criminal children of the City of Boston. Has been chairman of the board since its formation. In 1900 was made a member of the Board of Trustees of the Simmons Female College, and also of the Standing Committee of the Society of the Cincinnati. December 17, 1898, Rosamond and Annie Lawrence Lamb were born in Boston, and the latter died in Milton on December 6, 1899.

LARNED, WALTER CRANSTON. In addition to the books named in the last report has published "Arnaud's Masterpiece, A Romance of the Pyrenees" (Charles Scribner's Sons), and "Rembrandt, A Romance of Holland" (Ibid.). "I greatly regret that it will not be possible for me to be present at the dinner; at that time I expect to be in Europe."

LAWRENCE, JOHN STRACHAN. In 1896 made the first move in Michigan in the Gold Democratic bolt; was a delegate-at-large from Michigan to the Indianapolis Convention, and, later, a member of the Democratic State Executive Committee, and took an active part in the campaign.

LAWRENCE, WILLIAM. My dear Barnes — Has the thirtieth anniversary come so soon? It seems as if the twenty-fifth were only just past. As to anything that has happened to me in the last five years, it is singular how little happens. The only thing that is worth speaking of is the fact that Frederick Cunningham Lawrence was born May 22d, 1899, three days after Mrs. Lawrence and I celebrated our silver wedding. I have done nothing but move around Massachusetts in these five years; for a short trip to England the year after our twenty-fifth anniversary to the Lambeth Conference is not worth mentioning in these days when people run over and back so easily. I was reelected Overseer of the College last year. This, so far as I can remember it, sums up the whole business.

LINCOLN, FRANCIS NEWHALL. "Nothing since last report. I am a prosaic, commonplace citizen."

LODGE, HENRY CABOT. Is chairman of the Senate Committee on the Philippines, and a member of the Committee on Foreign Relations, Immigration, and Civil Service. In 1897 published "The Story of the American Revolution," which appeared first in Scribner's Magazine and was then published as a book, in two volumes. Wrote "The Story of the Spanish War" for Harper's Magazine in 1899, which was published in book form in the same year. In January, 1899, was reëlected to the Senate for a term of six years, ending March 4th, 1905. Was delegate-at-large to the Republican National Convention at Philadelphia in June, 1900, and was permanent chairman of the convention.

LOVERING, PHILLIPS ADAMS. "The last five years have been somewhat eventful ones, owing to the war with Spain. I was fortunate in being on the 'Oregon,' which perhaps had the lion's share of the work and glory. I am now comfortably settled at Mare Island and expect to remain on land for another year, and then make what I hope may be my last cruise. At the half century of life one looks forward to the throwing off of the burdens of youth."

LYMAN, FRANCIS OGDEN. Still engaged in the real estate and loan business. Is examiner of real estate titles for the Chicago Title and Trust Company.

McCOBB, JAMES SELDEN. Dear Barnes—I have been jostling about the Stock Exchange for the past five years, yelling for a living. Results: a brazen throat, a bad temper, and a competence.

McMANUS, JAMES. No reply.

MAYHEW, WILMOT MELVIN. My dear Barnes—Under dread of direful penalty at the hands of a life-seeking Secretary I answer the call. Nothing of special interest has happened to me in the past five years, except an attack of typhoid fever during the winter of 1900, during which for five weeks I hovered on the shadowy borders of life; but an excellent doctor, a faithful nurse, and a naturally strong constitution combined, led to recovery after a sickness and convalescence of five months, and now, aside from badly impaired eyesight as a result of the fever, I am really enjoying good health and strength. My home and occupation are the same as five years ago. Occasionally a Harvard man finds his way to this beautiful and somewhat noted summer resort by the lakeside, and, while welcoming all, we would be specially glad to greet and entertain any '71ster who might favor us with a visit.

MERRIAM, FRANK. No change from last report.

MONTAGUE, GEORGE PRESCOTT. No reply.

MUNROE, JOHN. "I have nothing to add to what you published five years ago. I am still at the old stand."

NESMITH, THOMAS. "Nothing to add to last report, except that I was born April 27, 1848, not April 28, 1849, as stated therein."

NICHOLS, HARRY PEIRCE. Has been rector of Holy Trinity Church, New York City, since August, 1899, and received the degree of B. D. at Andover in 1900. Did some first climbing in the Canadian Rockies in 1898, exploring and naming new regions. His son, Lawrence Fessenden Nichols, died July 8, 1896.

*OSBORNE, THEODORE MOODY. Osborne continued his duties as assistant clerk of the Superior Court for Suffolk until the early fall of 1898, when his health broke down, and he died after much suffering on the 6th of February, 1899. At the meeting of the Class on Commencement Day, 1899, the following tribute to his memory was read and ordered to be spread upon the records:

"The Class of 1871, gathered at its annual meeting, desires to record its affectionate memory of Theodore Moody Osborne, who died, after a long and painful illness, on the 6th of February, 1899.

"Osborne joined our class in the middle of Freshman year. He had entered Amherst College, receiving there the Porter prize for excellence in the entrance examinations. At Harvard he at once took his place among his fellows as a student of unusual ability. His keen, alert mind, especially competent in the field of mathematics, secured him a standing among the first scholars of the class, and he easily held his place throughout his college course. What most of us attained, if we attained at all, through painful effort, came to him apparently almost without exertion. His abundant leisure was devoted largely to the study of music, for which he had a natural taste and which remained the avocation of his later life. A profound but simple religious faith gave purpose and coherence to his work and his recreation.

"Interested in many things, Osborne found it difficult for some years after leaving college to settle to definite occupation for his many talents. He studied law while he was the librarian of his native town, but he did not win that enthusiasm for legal practice which commands success. Not until he found himself in the position of clerk to the courts of Suffolk County did he have the opportunity to display those stores of broad and accurate learning in the law which he had been long acquiring. During the eleven years of his service at the Court he won the confidence of bench and bar alike. Especially in the last four years, as clerk of the Equity Session, he came to be regarded as an indispensable aid to the judges in preparing their decisions. His name was repeatedly mentioned as a candidate for the bench, and it is probable that, if the organization of our courts had been such as to give scope for specialized knowledge on the part of judges, he would have been appointed on the equity side.

"He was in the full enjoyment of professional success when the long strain of overwork began to break down a constitution never over strong. The judges of the Court showed him every consideration. He was given indefinite leave of absence, but he never recovered his working power.

"The Class extends its heartfelt sympathy to his family in their great affliction."

OTIS, EDWARD OSGOOD. For the past few years has been active in advocating State Sanatoria and a City Consumptive Hospital for the care and cure of the consumptive poor and the protection of the community. Among other papers has published "The Causes and Conditions of Pulmonary Tuberculosis and how to avoid them," a prize essay (American Journal Medical Sciences, 1898); "Hospitals and Sanatoria for Consumptives Abroad" (Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, 1898); "The Duty of the State and Municipality in the Care of Pulmonary Tuberculosis among the Poor" (Albany Medical Journal, 1900); "Some Modern Methods of the Treatment of Phthisis" (Transactions of the Massachusetts Medical Society, 1898). Is a member of the Sons of American Revolution, and was president of the American Climatological Society Association for the year 1898. January 29, 1808, John Faxon Otis was born; August 16, 1899, Edward Osgood Otis, Jr., was born.

PALMER, CHARLES LANE. No reply.

PEARCE, EDWARD DOUGLAS. Nothing to alter in the 1896 items.

†PEIRCE, HERBERT HENRY DAVIS. In 1899 was appointed counsel for plaintiffs in the arbitration between the United States and Russia upon the claims of certain American citizens arising out of the seizures of the whaling-barque, "Cape Horn Pigeon," and the sealing vessels, "James Hamilton Lewis," "C. H. White," and "Kate and Anna." In July, 1900, was appointed counsel and agent of United States government in the arbitration. Is still at St. Petersburg.

PENNELL, ROBERT FRANKLIN. My dear Barnes — I resigned my position from the Chico Normal School in June, 1897. Since then I have lived mostly in San Francisco, teaching some and doing some insurance business. I spent the year 1899–1900 in Brooklyn, N. Y., but returned to San Francisco in August, 1900.

†PILLSBURY, ALBERT ENOCH. Is general counsel for the Boston Elevated Railway Company and numerous other corporations, and is serving as a commissioner to revise the charter of the City of Boston. Is a trustee of the Lawrence Academy, Groton, a member of the American Academy of Social and Political Science, and president of the Pillsbury Family Association.

READ, NATHANIEL GOODWIN. Nothing of interest since last report.

REED, JAMES RUSSELL. "Nothing to add to last report except that I am president of the Massachusetts Fish and Game Protective Association."

REYNOLDS, JOHN. Since October, 1897, has been living at Montclair, N. J. Is one of the trustees of the Brooklyn Collegiate and Polytechnic Institute.

RHODES, WALLACE EUGENE. No tidings of Rhodes for many years. [A. M. B.]

RICE, SYLVESTER WARREN. My dear Barnes — I have just returned from a camping trip of about four weeks in the southwestern part of this state. It was, to me, a very interesting trip. The scenery was grand. I am afraid you do not fully realize the situation when you ask me to come East next month. It would take a barber six weeks and a tailor another three months to make me presentable. Besides I have a trip laid out for Bohemia in the Cascade range of mountains that will occupy June. I should be greatly pleased to see any and all of you old boys again, and it makes me feel quite human to have you say that they would be pleased to see me. H. N. Wheeler called on me a few weeks ago. I am so glad he took the trouble to hunt me up. We were all so well pleased with him and his visit. Many, many a recollection of old Harvard and the boys has his visit recalled. I can't well go East this summer, but I do hope to sometime. Now I will give you an invitation to visit me. I have some burros or donkeys and a great liking for mountain camping, and if you will let me know a few weeks beforehand and come out here this summer, or any other summer, I will give you what I think is a grand outing for a few weeks. I think you could easily persuade Wheeler to take such a trip and may be he could easily persuade you. If a person likes mountains, streams, forests, hunting, fishing, tramping, bivouacing, things primeval, I think I can take him where his heart will throb several beats faster. My boy, Claude Thayer Rice, 51 Thayer Hall, graduates this year. I should be pleased to have any of my old classmates call on him, and I am certain he will be pleased to see any of the boys who were at Harvard while his father was there. Please give my invitation to visit the West a serious thought. I would like very much to have six or eight of you, old classmates, come out and take a mountain trip with me for a few weeks.

† RIVES, WILLIAM CABELL. No reply.

ROTCH, MORGAN. At present in Europe.

SAMPSON, JUNIUS. Is in the lumber business in New Iberia, La., in the employ of E. A. Pharr.

* SANBORN, WILLIAM DELANO. Sanborn died at his home in Winchester, Mass., April 7, 1900. At the Class meeting on Commencement Day, 1900, the following tribute to his memory was read and ordered to be spread on the records:

"Since our last annual meeting, it has pleased Almighty God to take from our midst our beloved classmate, William Delano Sanborn, and although it is not possible for us to always realize the wisdom of the acts of the All-wise and Infallible Father, yet we submit gracefully to His will, and take pleasure in remembering the many genial and endearing qualities of our departed classmate.

"Having retired from active business in early life he has always been conspicuous for his interest in athletic sports, and absorbed in unflinching fidelity to his immediate family his sole ambition being for the future development and prospects of his only son, who together with his widow survives him, and to whom we would express our most sincere and heartfelt sympathy."

SANGER, WILLIAM THOMPSON. Left New York about March 1 and is at present at Seattle.

SCOTT, JAMES PATTERSON. No reply. At present in Europe.

SEYBOLD, CHARLES FREDERICK. No reply.

SHEPARD, HARVEY NEWTON. Nothing to add to last report.

*† SINCLAIR, SAMUEL ERIE.

SMITH, THEOPHILUS GILMAN. Is still at Groton, Mass., "happily and diligently tilling the soil."

SPROAT, JAMES CROSSMAN. "Still at Taunton in a position which ensures me bread and butter, but not much pie."

STARBUCK, HENRY PEASE. "No change since last report. Happy the man who has no history."

STEDMAN, GEORGE. No reply.

STEDMAN, HENRY RUST. Removed to South Street, Brookline, Mass., in October, 1898, on the completion of his new private establishment for mental and nervous diseases. In addition to his private professional work he has devoted himself to securing a State Colony for Epileptics; the support of all the dependent insane by the State, exclusively; and other public measures for the amelioration of the condition of the insane. Has continued his contributions to medical journals. Has written on "The Prognosis and Duration of Mental Disease," "The After-Care of the Insane," etc. Was president of Boston Medico-Psychological Society for 1899–1900.

STEIN, CHARLES CARROLL. In January, 1901, was elected president of the Rocky Mountain Harvard Club.

STORY, WILLIAM EDWARD. No reply.

STOWELL, GEORGE LEVERETT. No changes since last report.

†SULLAVOU, EMANUEL. Was a member of the Board of Registrar of Voters of New Bedford from May, 1898, to May, 1901, and in May, 1901, was reappointed as chairman for three years more. Is also clerk pro tempore of the Third District Court of Bristol.

SUTRO, THEODORE. Still practising law, more especially in cases involving question of taxation. Is a member of the National Civic Club of Brooklyn, the Columbia College Alumni Association, and the West End Association; vice-president of the Society of Medical Jurisprudence and of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, and a director in the Grand Conservatory of Music. Was a delegate to the Arbitration Conference at Lake Mohonk.

SWIFT, HENRY WALTON. Was United States Marshal at Boston until March 1, 1899. In 1898–99 was lecturer on Sales at the Harvard Law School. In December, 1900, was appointed by Governor Crane reporter of decisions of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, and assumed the duties of the office January 1, 1901.

THAYER, NATHANIEL. My dear Albert — I do not know that I have any special change to make in the biography that you have sent me. My work has been steady and progressive since without any marked changes. I have been a member of the Executive Committee of the Federal Steel Company since the time of its formation in October, 1898. I am also a member of the Executive Committee of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., and was elected a director of that corporation in 1893. In June, 1900, I was elected vice-president and general manager of the Kansas City, Ft. Scott & Memphis, and the Kansas City, Memphis & Birmingham Railroads, and resigned the position in December and was made chairman of the two boards.

TITCOMB, LENDALL. In the spring of 1901 was nominated by acclamation as Republican candidate for mayor of the city of Augusta, Me., and was elected without any opposing candidate.

TOWNSEND, BENJAMIN BEECHER. Dear Barnes: I have your latest pathetic appeal. What, pray, have I to tell about myself! Nothing that I know of. I'm engaged, as heretofore, in the commonplace functions of keeping the fire on the hearth and the wolf from the door. That's the whole of the tale. No glory is mine!—only "the wages of going on and still to be," as the poet sings. I know you're hungry for something more, just as you'll be voracious to know "how in —— I managed to get there," when you greet me on Porphyry Avenue near the Pearly Gate, Elysium. How does that album of the "Grandpapas of '71" come on? And is there any truth in the report that you are about to exhume the illustrious dead of '71 and photograph them, that the veteran survivors may see how they'll look when they shall have put on immortality? It would be "mighty interesting." But you're all right, old man,—with all your eccentricities I love you still, and pray on my knees that you may live to write your own obituary.

TOWNSEND, HENRY CLARK. "I think the old report will do for me. I have written a few unimportant papers for the Technical Press, but they are hardly worth mentioning."

TROUTT, JAMES MORRIS. In 1898 was reëlected one of the Superior Court Judges of California for a term of six years from January, 1899. "Haven't made my mark yet, being still able to sign my name in full. I sincerely wish

I could be with you at our Class banquet. Please remember me kindly to all classmates."

TUDOR, WILLIAM. Tudor appears not to have anything of interest to add to the last report, but the following letter indicates his lively interest in the Class:

SEATTLE, May 17, 1901.

Dear Barnes — I regret very much that, owing to three weeks' loss of time in being quarantined, I shall not be able to meet the Class on Commencement next month. I had counted on this meeting and am greatly disappointed. I have several mines to examine and make reports upon in Southeast Alaska, and it will be impossible to crowd this work into the limited time remaining. Please tell the boys that my heart is with them if my bodily presence is on the other side of the continent.

TWOMBLY, HAMILTON McKOWN. No change from last report.

WALKER, TIMOTHY BREWSTER. No reply.

WARE, WILLIAM ROTCH. My dear Albert — I have nothing to add to my last report. I am only a connecting link between generations who have done something and the generations who may do something, and as a link in the chain perhaps I have been useful. I have edited "Monographs of American Architecture," "Architectural Odds and Ends," and "The Georgian Period," and am editor of Topical Architecture.

WARREN, JOSEPH WEATHERHEAD. "Still at the old stand, engaged in furthering the higher education of the bepetticoated, with an occasional descendant of a seventy onester among them. Have written two or three scientific papers of no general interest, and have three or four more on the stocks about to be given to an indulgent public."

WELLS, JAMES BRADISH. No reply.

WENTWORTH, WILLIAM PECK. No report.

WHEELER, HENRY NATHAN. Nothing of interest to add to last report.

WHITNEY, EDWARD FARLEY. January 1, 1900, became a partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., New York.

WHITNEY, WILLIAM FISKE. "Last report is correct."

WILDS, JUDSON BOARDMAN. No change from last report.

WILKINSON, ALMADUS. No change from last report. Resides in Upper Troy in the winter, and at Johnsonville in the summer.

WILLIAMS, BYRON CRANE. No change from last report.

WILLIAMS, CHARLES HERBERT. In addition to papers mentioned in the last report has written the following: "A Modified Photometer for Testing Red Signal Lenses," "A Case in which a Piece of Copper was removed from the Vitreous, the Metal having been located by the aid of the Roentgen Rays," "Standards of Form and Color-vision required in Railway Service," "Test Types for Examining the Vision of Railway Employees," "Defective Vision and Color-perception." Has invented an instrument for measuring the axis of any cylindrical lens either alone or in combination with any spherical lens; an improved perimeter; and a new lantern for testing the color-perception of railway employees, which is now in use on several of the large railway systems of this country, and on the Belgian State railways in Europe.

WILLIAMSON, JOHN SCHENCK. No change from last report.

WING, GEORGE CLARY. "No changes from last report that would be of special interest to the Class."

ADDRESSES.

Amory, Francis I., 23 Court St., Boston.
Austin, Amory, 66 Ayrault St., Newport, R. I.
Backus, Henry C., 489 West 22d St., New York.
Bacon, Francis William.
Barnes, Albert M., 1290 Massachusetts Ave., Cambridge.
Bartlett, Nelson S., 60 State St., Boston.
Bass, George, 145 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.
Bassett, Francis.
Bigelow, Dr. William S., 60 Beacon St., Boston.
Bonaparte, Charles J., 216 St. Paul St., Baltimore, Md.
Booth, Dr. Edward C., 40 Boston St., Somerville, Mass.
Bowen, Charles S., Cambridge, Mass.
Boyd, Rev. William W., 4323 W. Pine St., St. Louis, Mo.
Bradlee, Dudley H., 153 Milk St., Boston.
Brooks, Rev. John Cotton, Springfield, Mass.
Brown, Jesse, 1801 I St., Washington, D. C.
Bullock, Rufus A., 27 School St., Boston.
Burnett, Hon. Edward, 111 Fifth Ave., New York.
Bush, Samuel Dacre, 71 Kilby St., Boston.
Byerly, Prof. William E., Cambridge, Mass.
Canavan, Michael J., 282 Washington St., Boston.
Chadwick, Francis B., care Munroe & Co., Paris, France.
Chapin, Herbert A., 5 Tremont St., Boston.
Chapin, Horace D., 50 State St., Boston.
Chase, Dr. Herbert A., 950 Massachusetts Ave., Cambridge.
Chenery, C., 136 Boylston St., Boston.
Clifford, Hon. Walter, New Bedford, Mass.
Connor, Virgil R., Box 430, Fairfield, Me.
Cutler, Arthur T., 50 Madison St., Chicago, Ill.
Dabney, Alfred S., 411 Beacon St., Boston.
Dana, I. Putnam, Kansas City, Mo.
Daniels, F. B., care The Pullman Co., Chicago, Ill.
Dearborn, J. H., Suncook, N. H.
Deming, H. E., 11 William St., New York City.

Donaldson, John J., Baltimore, Md.
Ela, Richard, 53 State St., Boston.
Ela, Dr. Walter, 13 Ash St., Cambridge, Mass.
Emerton, Prof. Ephraim, 19 Chauncy St., Cambridge, Mass.
Ernst, George A. O., 76 Equitable Building, Boston.
Eustis, William E. C., 60 State St., Boston.
Faxon, Walter, Museum of Comp. Zoölogy, Cambridge, Mass.
Fox, Jabez, 99 Irving St., Cambridge.
French, W. Clifford.
Fuller, Alfred N., 153 West 45th St., New York City.
Garland, Dr. George M., 227 Newbury St., Boston.
Gerrish, John B., 15 East 54th St., New York City.
Gleason, Rev. Theodore C., Lonsdale, R. I.
Godey, Dr. Harry, 1841 Spruce St., Philadelphia, Pa.
Hagar, Eugene B., 33 Temple St., Boston.
Hills, Prof. William B., Harvard Medical School, Boston.
Hinckley, S. P., Lawrence Station, Long Island, N. Y.
Hodges, Dr. Edw. F., 2 West New York St., Indianapolis, Ind.
Hunking, Dr. Charles D., Hotel San Remo, New York.
Jackson, Frank, 88 Marlboro St., Boston.
James, Henry C., 501 Ashland Ave., St. Paul, Minn.
Jay, Augustus, 70 Ave. Marceau, Paris, France.
Jenks, Charles W., Bedford, Mass.
Johnson, Treby, Augusta, Me.
Jones, George L., 115 Monroe St., Chicago, Ill.
Kimball, Charles W., Penn Yan, N. Y.
King, John L., 200 De Witt St., Syracuse, N. Y.
King, William N., Columbus Club, Columbus, Ohio.
Klapp, Dr. William H., 1324 Locust St., Philadelphia, Pa
Lamb, Horatio A., 27 Kilby St., Boston.
Larned, Walter C., 325 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.
Lawrence, John S., Mich. Trust Co. Building, Grand Rapids, Mich
Lawrence, Rev. William, 101 Brattle St., Cambridge, Mass.
Lincoln, Francis N., care Little, Brown & Co., Boston.
Lodge, Hon. Henry Cabot, Nahant, or Washington, D. C.
Lovering, Dr. Phillips A., Navy Department, Washington, D. C.
Lyman, Charles.
Lyman, Francis O., 100 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

McCobb, James S., Charles Head & Co., New York City.
McManus, James, Natick, Mass.
Manwaring, Wolcot B., New London, Conn.
Mayhew, Rev. Wilmot M., Highgate Springs, Vt.
Merriam, Frank, 23 Court St., Boston.
Montague, G. P., McGill Building, Washington, D. C.
Munroe, John, 7 Rue Scribe, Paris, France.
Nesmith, Thomas, Park St., Lowell, Mass.
Nichols, Francis Williams.
Nichols, Rev. Harry P., 18 West 122d St., New York City.
Otis, Dr. Edward O., 308 Commonwealth Ave., Boston.
Palmer, Charles L., Grangeville, Idaho.
Pearce, Edward D., P. O. Box 1336, Providence, R. I.
Peirce, H. H. D., U. S. Embassy, St. Petersburg, Russia.
Pennell, Robert F., 1169 Mission St., San Francisco, Cal.
Pillsbury, Albert E., Sears Building, Boston.
Read, N. Goodwin, 3 Spruce St., Boston.
Reed, J. Russell, 68 Devonshire St., Boston.
Reynolds, John, 60 Plymouth St., Montclair, N. J.
Rhodes, Wallace E.
Rice, Hon. Sylvester W., Dillard, Oregon.
Rives, William C., 22 West 33d St., New York City.
Rotch, Hon. Morgan, New Bedford, Mass.
Sampson, Junius, New Iberia, La.
Sanger, William T.
Scott, James P., Bullitt Building, Philadelphia, Pa.
Seybold, Prof. Charles F., Avondale, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Shepard, Harvey N., 1049 Exchange Building, Boston.
Smith, Theophilus G., Groton, Mass.
Sproat, James C., Taunton, Mass.
Starbuck, Henry P., 1003½ State St., Santa Barbara, Cal.
Stearns, Charles N., 6 Robinson Place, Roxbury, Mass.
Stedman, Dr. George, 1080 Boylston St., Boston.
Stedman, Dr. Henry R., Roslindale, Mass.
Stein, Charles C., Pueblo, Col.
Story, Prof. William E., Clark University, Worcester, Mass.
Stowell, Rev. George L., Colonial Club, Cambridge, Mass.
Sullavou, Emanuel, New Bedford, Mass.

Sutro, Theodore, 280 Broadway, New York City.
Swift, Henry W., 50 State St., Boston.
Thayer, Nathaniel, 50 State St., Boston.
Titcomb, Lendall, Augusta, Me.
Townsend, Benjamin B., 346 Broadway, New York City.
Townsend, Henry C., 141 Broadway, New York City.
Troutt, Hon. James M., New City Hall, San Francisco, Cal.
Tudor, William, 37 Brimmer St., Boston.
Twombly, Hamilton McK., Mills Building, New York City.
Walker, Timothy B., Buffalo, N. Y.
Ware, William R., care American Architect, Boston.
Warren, Prof. Joseph W., Bryn Mawr, Pa.
Watson, Ruel A.
Wells, James B., Helena, Montana.
Wentworth, William P.
Wheeler, Henry N., 4 Park St., Boston.
Whitney, Edward F., J. P. Morgan & Co., New York City.
Whitney, Dr. William F., 228 Marlboro St., Boston.
Wilds, Judson B., 78 East 54th St., New York City.
Wilkinson, Almadus, Johnsonville, Rensselaer Co., N. Y.
Williams, Byron C., Newark, Wayne Co., N. Y.
Williams, Dr. Charles H., Salem, Mass.
Williamson, John S., 26 Court St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Wing, George C., 89 Euclid Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

BIRTHS.

Lamb	Rosamond	Dec. 17, 1898.
	Annie Lawrence.[1]
Lawrence, W.	Frederick Cunningham	May 22, 1899.
Otis	John Faxon	Jan. 29, 1898.
	Edward Osgood, Jr	Aug. 16, 1899.

[1] Died Dec. 6, 1899.

DEATHS.

GRADUATE MEMBERS.

Osborne	Feb. 6, 1899.
Sanborn	April 7, 1900.
Eayrs	May 14, 1900.
Boardman	Jan. 1, 1901.

4; Total since 1871, 38.

TEMPORARY MEMBERS.

Loring	1896.
Dunnell	1897.
Sinclair

3; Total, 9.

MEMBERS OF THE CLASS.

*Aiken, William Henry *1885
Amory, Francis Inman
Austin, Amory
*Austin, Percy *1877
Backus, Henry Clinton
†Bacon, Francis William
Barnes, Albert Mallard
Bartlett, Nelson Slater
Bass, George
Bassett, Francis
*Berry, Clarence Hereford *1881
Bigelow, William Sturgis
*Boardman, Edward Chadwick *1901
Bonaparte, Charles Joseph
Booth, Edward Chauncey
Bowen, Charles Stuart
Boyd, William Willard
Bradlee, Dudley Hall
*Bradshaw, Charles *1876
*Brearley, Samuel *1886
†Brooks, John Cotton A. B. 1872
Brown, Jesse
*Buell, Byron Winfield *1875
Bullock, Rufus Augustus
*Burgess, Edward *1881
Burnett, Edward
*Bush, Archibald McClure *1877
Bush, Samuel Dacre
Byerly, William Elwood
Canavan, Michael Joseph
Chadwick, Francis Brooks
Chapin, Herbert Allen
Chapin, Horace Dwight
Chase, Herbert Augustus
†Chenery, Cornelius
*Clark, Galen Alonzo *1875
Clifford, Walter
*Comstock, George Franklin, Jr. *1884
Connor, Virgil Roscoe
Cutler, Arthur Trufant
Dabney, Alfred Stackpole
*†Damon, George Wallace *1881
*Dana, Charles Peasley *1881
Dana, Israel Putnam
Daniels, Francis Barrett
Dearborn, Joseph Henry
Deming, Horace Edward
†Donaldson, John Johnston
*†Dunnell, Thomas *1877
*Fayrs, Norman Wilder *1901
Ela, Richard
Ela, Walter
Emerton, Ephraim
Ernst, George Alexander Otis
Eustis, William Ellery Channing
Faxon, Walter
Fox, Jabez
†French, William Clifford
Fuller, Alfred Newell
Garland, George Minott
Gerrish, John Brown
Gleason, Theodore Clarence
Godey, Harry
*Goodnow, Charles Asher *1875
*†Gray, Francis Irving *1881
*†Greenough, Henry
*Greenough, Richard Gordon *1881
Hagar, Eugene Bigelow
*Hastings, Leslie *1881
Hills, William Parker
Huckley, Samuel Parker
Hodges, Edward Francis
*Hodges, Osgood *1881
*Hooper, William Edwin *1881
*Howe, Samuel *1881
Hunking, Charles Francis
Jackson, Frank

James, Henry Clay
Jay, Augustus
Jenks, Charles William
Johnson, Treby
Jones, George Irving
*Jones, Robert Gould *1885
Kimball, Charles Warren
King, John Lord
King, William Neil
Klapp, William Henry
Lamb, Horatio Appleton
Larned, Walter Cranston
Lawrence, John Strachan
Lawrence, William
*Lewis, Elijah Howard *1875
Lincoln, Francis Newhall
Lodge, Henry Cabot
*†Loring, Richard Freeman *1896
Lovering, Phillips Adams
†Lyman, Charles
Lyman, Francis Ogden
McCobb, James Selden
*McIntosh, Kenneth *1883
McManus, James
†Manwaring, Wolcot Barber
Mayhew, Wilmot Melvin
Merriam, Frank
*Minot, George Richards *1894
Montague, George Prescott
*Morris, James Rownd *1880
*†Munroe, Andrew Townsend Hall *1868
Munroe, John
Nesmith, Thomas
†Nichols, Francis William
Nichols, Harry Peirce
*Nourse, Frederic Russell *1886
*Obermeyer, Simon *1891
*Osborne, Theodore Moody *1899
Otis, Edward Osgood
Palmer, Charles Lane
Pearce, Edward Douglas
†Peirce, Herbert Henry Davis
Pennell, Robert Franklin
†Pillsbury, Albert Enoch A. M. 1891
Read, Nathaniel Goodwin
Reed, James Russell
Reynolds, John
Rhodes, Wallace Eugene
Rice, Sylvester Warren
†Rives, William Cabell
*Roberts, George French *1885
*Rotch, Arthur *1894
Rotch, Morgan
*†Russell, Henry McKenzie *1872
Sampson, Junius
*Sanborn, William Delano *1900
*Sanders, Charles Burnham *1881
Sanger, William Thompson
*Saunders, William Elmer *1889
Scott, James Patterson
Seybold, Charles Frederick
Shepard, Harvey Newton
*Simpson, Michael Henry *1872
*†Sinclair, Samuel Erie *1900
Smith, Theophilus Gilman
*Sprague, William Lawrence *1884
Sproat, James Crossman
Starbuck, Henry Pease
†Stearns, Charles Nelson
Stedman, George
Stedman, Henry Rust A. B. 1887
Stein, Charles Carroll
Story, William Edward
Stowell, George Leverett
†Sullavou, Emanuel
Sutro, Theodore
Swift, Henry Walton
Thayer, Nathaniel
Titcomb, Lendall
Townsend, Benjamin Beecher
Townsend, Henry Clark
Troutt, James Morris
Tudor, William
Twombly, Hamilton McKown
Walker, Timothy Brewster
*Walter, Joseph Rhodes *1890
Ware, William Rotch
Warren, Joseph Weatherhead
†Watson, Ruel Alvord

Wells, James Bradish
Wentworth, William Peck
Wheeler, Henry Nathan
*Wheeler, John Henry *1887
*†Whitney, Charles Henry *1867
*Whitney, Charles Leavitt Beals *1872
Whitney, Edward Farley
Whitney, William Fiske
Wilds, Judson Boardman
Wilkinson, Almadus
Williams, Byron Crane
Williams, Charles Herbert
Williamson, John Schenck
Wing, George Clary
*Winslow, William Rodman *1[illegible]4

Total Graduates, 158.

Non-Graduates, 23.